SCHOOL NOTES

The Henry Clay Law Society, the membership of which is composed exclusively of students of law, has arranged for a tri-cornered inter-collegiate debate. Cincinnati University has already agreed to enter and negotiations are being carried on with Tennessee University, which is believed will be successful. It is the intention of the members of The Henry Clay Law Society to make this debate an annual affair, which they believe will be done.

The Henry Clay Law Society has organized itself into a legislative assembly and under the direction of Judge Lyman Chalkley, they intend by actual experience to learn legislative procedure.

All the English reports from 1650 to the present have been lately added to the law library.

Under the laws of New York, work of a non-resident law school is not considered on examination for admission to the bar, until an examination is made by the Department of Education at Albany. That department has recently made an investigation of this law school and the work done here is given full credit.

Charles Otey, of Class of '12, is an attorney at law at Marion, Illinois.

The Senior Moot Court class have just finished bringing suits in the following branches of the law: Attachment, foreclosure of mortgage, partition of land, divorce and injunction.
